"Becoming and Artist.... Not just a Photographer "

Jack's presentation will serve to provide attendees with a thoughtful and introspective look at the concept of becoming an artist, using a camera, and not just another photographer in a sea of many. Jack will talk about some of his past experiences and where he is now as an artist and what it takes to reach that level. This talk will serve to inspire and enlighten all and get everyone to thinking about where we all are currently, and where we would like to be someday as photographic artists, not just another photographers. This presentation will also serve to challenge everyone to grow as photographers and artists while providing choices along the way.

Harsha Jayawardena resides in Mason City, Iowa. Ever since his early childhood, Harsha has been interested in wildlife and nature. As a teenager, he began bird watching in his home country, Sri Lanka. Harsha got his first digital camera in 2005. Ever since then, his passion for photography has grown greatly. His main interest is bird photography, but he also enjoys photographing the beauty of nature and landscape.

More of Harsha's images may be found on his website – <http://harshaj.smugmug.com>.
